Trimac Transportation Announces Acquisition of Logex

Trimac Equipment Leasing Inc. ("Trimac") announced today that it has acquired the assets and business of Logistics Express, Inc. ("Logex"), headquartered in Orange, California. This acquisition closed on June 1, 2007.

Logex was founded in 1972 and is North America's largest independent industrial gas transportation carrier. Logex operated with revenues of over $80 million in 2006. Most of the 500 drivers and office personnel employed by Logex will become Trimac employees.

Trimac, through its related entities, acquired 27 branches in 17 states, as well as one branch in Alberta, Canada. The U.S. assets and business of Logex were acquired by Trimac, while the Canadian assets and business will be integrated into the western Canadian operations of a related entity of Trimac.

In announcing these acquisitions, Tom Connard, Executive VP and Chief Operating Officer for Trimac's U.S. operations said "Trimac is very excited to welcome Logex employees and customers to Trimac". Trimac and Logex each have decades of experience in fulfilling customer transportation needs. The addition of the Logex branches will continue to improve the network of Trimac locations throughout the United States and Canada for transportation services, making Trimac the largest independent industrial gas transportation company in North America.

The purchase of the Logex business fits into Trimac's long-term strategic objective of diversifying its business by product, industry, customer and geography. This acquisition will increase the U.S. branch footprint to 74, and a total of 122 in North America.
